How you can win

Competition	How it works	What makes it exciting
Weekly cash	Top 3 net scores get paid every week.	You can show up hot on any Tuesday and leave with money.
Segment race	Each official 4-week segment pays 1st, 2nd, and 3rd.	Even if one night goes badly, the dropped low score keeps teams alive.
Year-end purse	Season-long points decide the final 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th payouts.	Consistency all summer still gets rewarded.
Special prizes	KP, weekly longest putt, and a $5,000 hole-in-one prize every week.	There is always another way to have a big night.

Handicaps keep it competitive

- All teams start at 0 handicap in the preseason.
- After that, the league uses net scores so every team has a chance.
- Handicaps are based on how your score compares to the best score and are averaged through the season.
- This keeps stronger teams honest and gives improving teams a real shot every week.
- New Teams can join the league at any time and will be assigned a 0 Handicap at that point
- Non team players may drop in any week and be eligible to win Proximity prizes, Hoe in One, KP (if KP is a carry over night they are only eligible to win for the weeks they have contributed to the pot)

Extra weekly action

- KP prize every week, with carryover when it is not won under the league rule.
- Weekly longest putt prize.
- $5,000 hole-in-one prize every week.
- Drink and beer specials to keep the night social after the round.
- Weekly meals from Sunrise Green Restaurant (Menu & Pricing Changes Weekly)

What players will see online

Mens Night League – Frequently Asked Questions

Q: How is my handicap calculated?

A: Your handicap is based on how your score compared to the best score each week. It is calculated as a season-long average of those differences, so it adjusts gradually over time.

Q: Does a bad round ruin my season?

A: No. Each mini season drops your worst score once you have enough rounds, so one bad night won't hurt you long-term.

Q: Can I still win if I'm not one of the best players?

A: Yes. Weekly payouts, mini seasons, and handicaps are designed so any team can win on a given night or over a short stretch.

Q: Why didn't I get more handicap after one bad round?

A: Handicaps are based on an average over time, not a single round. This prevents large swings and keeps things fair.

Q: Why did my handicap go down after a good round?

A: If you perform closer to the best score, your handicap decreases to reflect improved performance.

Q: How are ties handled?

A: If teams tie for a position, the prize money for those places is combined and split evenly among the tied teams.

Q: What happens in preseason?

A: Preseason is a 3-week mini season used to establish handicaps. It includes payouts but does not count toward year-end standings.

Q: Do dropped scores count toward year-end standings?

A: No. Any score dropped in a mini season is also excluded from the year-end standings.

Q: When do standings update?

A: Standings update after each week once scores are entered and finalized.

Q: Can teams be added mid-season?

A: Yes. New teams start with a handicap of 0 and will be adjusted based on their performance.

Q: What happens if someone cheats or manipulates scores?

A: Any player or team found to be cheating or intentionally manipulating the system will be removed from the league and forfeit all fees and winnings.

Q: When do Payouts Happen?

A: Weekly payouts will be paid out the next week at mens night to confirm scores, Mini season will also be paid out the following week, year end will also be paid out within one week of last event
